

It's presentation time: Let's find out more about these extraordinary people

While visiting your classmates' presentation tables take lots of notes on this sheet. You will need all the information for your final writing task.

Write the persons' names into the stars. Then collect all the achievements in the top row of the table --- and write all the obstacles and challenges that the person had to overcome into the bottom row. Look at the example:

J.K. Rowling 1965 -- now	Christopher Columbus 1451-1506
She has written all the Harry Potter books. She has written several crime books for adults under the name Robert Galbraith. She has become a millionaire. In October 2010 she was named the "Most Influential Woman in Britain".	He was an Italian explorer. He crossed the Atlantic ocean with three big sailboats and discovered America in 1492. He made 3 more voyages to South and Central America. He gave the name "indios" to the local people there because he thought that he had landed in India.
She was a single mother and did not have a job. She did not have any money. The publishers rejected her books.	He grew up in a poor family in Genova in Italy. He did not go to school for long but began an apprenticeship as a business agent. He made many trips to deliver valuable goods to rich people in far away countries.

							